CAMP, CAMP, CAMP

We have a single focus now and that is to get the camp property ready for the thousands of people who will soon arrive. Over the past few weeks, we've had the help of a school group and two youth groups. Each of them worked hard for many hours to get things at camp cleaned, repaired, and ready to go.

Dozens of volunteers have signed up so far, but more are still needed. It takes more than 50 staff members each week to fill all of our needs. We still need people to be teachers, junior counselors, helpers, bus drivers, and nurses. Let us know if you can help in any way.

Our family is planning to leave as soon as Jacob and Olivia finish school and spend a few days at the beach before our busy summer begins. We're hoping this vacation will be a great time of rest and family activities.

CORA

Cora has been a great help both at camp and at the office. It's nice that she had the month of May off before summer activities begin.

CALEB

Caleb completed his junior year with Liberty Online Academy. Online school was a great fit for him this year. It allowed him to take all of his needed high school courses and also three college courses. He'll plan to do the same next year as a senior.

JACOB

Jacob had the opportunity to compete at the PA state finals of National History Day. He did his project on David Livingstone and he really learned a lot. The judges told him it seemed like Livingstone has become his friend throughout this process; that was probably true.

OLIVIA

Olivia finished her school year on June 2 and will start high school next year. She really enjoyed Home Ec this year because of her love of cooking. She's been doing some cooking for our family and she does a great job.
