When we hang our stockings on the mantle this year, we will look back on a year filled with blessings.

Dan loves teaching two Good News Clubs each week as well as filling in as bus driver and substitute teacher as needed. He also likes to visit clubs and take pictures.

Michelle also has the privilege of teaching clubs each week, but the highlight of her month is preparing resources for teachers to use and presenting them at Teacher Training Classes.

Cora has decided not to do cheerleading this year at school and she's glad for the less hectic schedule. She has so much going on in other areas of her life as she is in her senior year and preparing for college. She still enjoys teaching a Good News Club each week.

Caleb loves being in high school and is helping with an all boys Good News Club each Thursday afternoon. He is also working hard on his History Day project. He's designing a website this year for his project so that is a new challenge.

Jacob is playing on the junior high basketball team this Fall-Winter. Like Caleb, he is hitting a 7th grade growth spurt which should come in handy for rebounding.

Olivia got to go on her first youth group retreat to Ocean City in late November. It's hard to believe she is old enough to be in the youth group. She's loving every minute of it.

Merry Christmas
