TRANSITION TIME

May is the month where we find ourselves going back and forth between finishing duties related to Good News Clubs and starting the many things that need to be done at camp. It was such a blessing to be involved with the last day of club at several schools this year. On the last day, all second graders who are moving out of our program are given Bibles. At one club, a girl was hugging her Bible and said, "I've never had a Bible before" with a huge smile on her face. We pray those Bibles will be a blessing to those children and to the homes they enter.

We're not planning any major construction projects this Spring at camp. That is a relief, but there is still plenty to do to get everything ready. We're grateful for some work days and many volunteers who will help us get things ready to go. So far, we have about  $\frac{1}{3}$  of the teachers we need to fill our weeks of camp. Pray for God to provide. We are also looking for a lifeguard to be there from 12:30 - 2:30 each day. Please contact us if you know someone who might be interested in this part-time job.

CORA AND SETH

They had a week of vacation in April and decided to spend the time in Hong Kong with some friends. They are certainly making the most of the experiences that are available to them. May 29 will be their last day of school for the year. We're looking forward to spending some time with them soon.

JACOB

Jacob will graduate on May 31. He has also made the decision that he will attend Liberty University in Lynchburg, Virginia to study Computer Science. He is very excited about all of the opportunities that are waiting for him. We're glad that he will be closer to home so we can visit and he can come home for some weekends.

CALEB

At the time of this writing, Caleb is on a plane flying to London for the mission's trip with his school. He was very excited to be going and his itinerary was a great mix of ministry time and time for sightseeing. He will finish his year on May 8 and plans to come back to Waynesboro to work at camp over the summer.

OLIVIA

Olivia will take her SAT this month as she prepares for her senior year of high school. She is hoping to pursue an engineering degree since she really enjoys math and does very well in it. She's pretty sure she'd like to go to LeTourneau University in Texas, but has a few months before that decision needs to be final.
